

The First Parish Book of St. John the Baptist
Coventry
1734 - 1752

Births Marriages & Burials
The Damaged Text
by W.A. Bottrill

The First Parish Book of St John's Coventry is kept at Warwick Archives. It is on restricted access as the early pages have badly faded (some pages appear to be completely blank to the naked eye!). Having ancestors in Coventry around the time this register was compiled, I was naturally interested in the contents! Firstly I looked to see if someone had made a copy of the book at Coventry archives, but it appears it has not been transcribed; next I viewed a film copy of the actual register also in Coventry archive. This shows why there is no transcription as pages have deteriorated badly over the years, it is almost impossible to keep track of the entries and dates, compounded by worn film and equipment.

I understand these films at Coventry archives were produced by the L.D.S., or a company working for them, in the 1960's. Next I looked up the Bishop's Transcripts (they are also on film at Coventry archives) but unfortunately, I found these records only start at 1752 for St John's, it appears the earlier rolls have been misplaced or lost over the years. These transcripts would have been a copy of the register (I was even more convinced that my missing ancestors would be in this damaged section of the parish book!). I did not want to give up on this just yet, so e-mailed Warwick archives and asked if I could view the actual register, hoping that the L.D.S. film had been of poor quality. I must thank Mrs Solomon who e-mailed back and allowed me to view the book, however, the actual book is only very slightly better than the film, but you do get an idea of the layout of the book which is lacking in the film. I decided that perhaps something could be done to reveal what was on the damaged pages.

I spent a year studying the parish register and this C.D. is the result. It is not an actual copy of the register, word for word. I tried my hardest to only enter what was written in the register but the degree of concentration required on the damaged pages was too much for one person, instead I have approached this problem in the following way by compiling it from various sources, an amalgam of records and study of the actual register contents which nevertheless does afford quite an insight into what is contained on the damaged pages. It can at least be used as a Map or guide to the register if you wish to check the position of a particular entry or what page a certain year was on, with comparison against the film held in Coventry archive - this was almost impossible to do before this C.D.

On first inspection the parish book looks to be of a hefty size, difficult to study the text without leaning on the print! It also looks like the pages have been rebound, the pages to be studied are numbered 1 to 36, at the centre bottom of the book (these are the pages for June 1734 to Dec 1752). There also appears to be a transcription of a random page which turns out to be page 1, this page is completely washed out in the actual book so it is really useful to have, (incidentally the L.D.S. film of the register book in Coventry archives has omitted page 35). It was not until I was using the ultra violet light on page 1 that I became aware there was something wrong with the transcribed page 1, the transcription actually is not of a complete page. It is missing the last 2 months of the year!

I decided that a format must be found that would enable me to reveal what was written on the damaged pages, I thought that it might be possible to build up layer upon layer, it would also be useful to know which layer the text was from, so I decided to colour code the entries so you can see how reliable the source is, for instance (black type) is a direct copy of what can be seen on the L.D.S. film, (blue type) is what I could additionally read from the actual parish book and also Marriages by Licence. (On studying the pages of the book there were numerous intriguing notes scribbled in amongst the text- ie the first child baptized/the first banns etc.). On reading the preamble which is at the end of the L.D.S. film it became clear that the church was not in a fit state to hold any ceremonies in 1734, the Baptisms and Weddings continued at St Michael's well past 1734, and also at Foleshill! I suspect the money went to St John's and the book was used to enter the event only. Curiously, banns were first mentioned in 1737 page 6, I wondered, could there have been a few licences before that date? So then I went to the archives at Lichfield, where the Licences are stored for Coventry. The marriage entries in the parish book are probably the most difficult to read so I was hoping to get a few actual dates, but what quite astonished me was every wedding up to 1737 was a licence wedding! There were no Banns before the scribbled note in the margin (except for Foleshill). Unfortunately there is also a year 1738 where the actual licences are missing for St John's at Lichfield archives. (The curious way St. John's licences are written is worth a mention. The licence lists usually three alternatives, St Michaels/St John's and typically a participant's own village, you then have a random choice of which church will take the ceremony, you soon gain experience in finding those attributed to St John's. So we have the first actual baptism on page 3, 14th Jan.1735- the first actual banns on page 6, 31st Jan.1737-- and the first burial on page 29, 25th April 1749 - in the parish book. Also worth a mention is how the licenses are categorized at Lichfield - they are in bundles of quarter years and use the Julian calendar as it is before the 1752 changeover, so the new legal year starts in April, they are not specifically for Coventry so you have to trawl through hundreds of licences to extract the Coventry ones. I must say a big thank you at this point to the two ladies who work on the counter at Lichfield archives and who encouraged me to plough through quite a sizeable task. Next I used the Ultra Violet lamp to scan the parish book at Warwick archives to reveal another layer, this is where having access to the book is invaluable as it could not be done from the LDS film. However, due to constant interruptions and requests to turn off the lamp or avoid leaning on the text I found it difficult to maintain the degree of concentration required, nevertheless some pages responded extremely well and once I had mastered the peculiar style of handwriting (which started off normally on the left side of the page but as it progressed to the right could increase in size three fold) a lot of extra information appeared. I used (violet type) to display this on the C.D.

Also I would like to mention most surnames have been underlined in the text, whether this was done afterwards because the text was fading or at the time it was written I do not know. To try and maintain concentration and position on the faded pages I tried using various shaped card to cover the area not being worked on, this helped to stop stray light hitting the whole page but due to the variations in handwriting was of limited success.

Someone had mentioned at Warwick that I should look at the I.G.I. which I did, but perhaps because I was inexperienced I could not find anything on St John's, although I didn't dismiss it completely. As I collected more information and became more experienced, I found indeed someone had made an heroic effort of transcribing the book, there are two L.D.S. film batch numbers ----C 04367-2 and M 04367-2 relating to St John's between 1734/1752, you can display a list covering 1734-1752, either marriages or baptisms, by just putting a batch number into the L.D.S. website, however the names are in alphabetical order so do not relate to a particular page or month! (There are a few stray references on other film)-I used (aqua coloured type) to denote I.G.I. references and also a red coloured diagonal after the entry to denote missed entries (missed by I.G.I.). I also used a symbol ^—to show where the I.G.I. differed in the entry or where the entry was incomplete, the ^ is mostly at the end of an entry showing that most of the text coincides with my interpretation and also a forward slash symbol is used in the text to show any variations of, say, a surname.

At the bottom of each page I have entered any stray entries which will not fit in the text mainly from I.G.I. they probably do not have any meaningful date on them or no compete surname etc. All the licences at Lichfield are complete with the ages of the couples getting married, so I have included these up to 1744 in front of the actual entry as an aside, these ages are not in the St John's parish book! Also 1744 is when I have stopped logging the marriage licences as the date line is quite legible on the film from now on.

I think the time is near when the parish book will have faded so much that it will not be possible to extract the entries even with sophisticated equipment, ideally a small group could work on the book. I found the degree of concentration required was too much for one person, as you had to break from the text to record the findings and then you lose track in the faded text! You only have a second where the word begins to be revealed! If the missing B.T.s are not found there will only be this C.D. Next, I would like to apologize in advance, there are bound to be entries that are wrong or names misspelt or the wrong name included, this is because there is virtually nothing left of the writing on many of the pages, the amount of damage the book has been subjected to over the years is quite considerable. The basic idea of this C.D. was to give an overview of what was in the early faded sections, the finer detail could be assimilated from families who have ancestors who would match the place and time scale, and could match the majority of the entry. Nevertheless, I am quite pleased with the amount of data revealed.

The entries are all set out in an identical manner until page 32 1750, this is extremely useful as you can judge where the surname and first names will be in the entry, even though you cannot see all the text, so you can concentrate on the most important areas and can fill in words like (in ye parish of)(daughter of) (son of)

So a typical early entry would be –THOMAS so (SON OF) JOHN & ELIZABETH MUSSON and a marriage would be-PHILLIP HILL & MARY SATCHWELL boypo (BOTH OF YE PARISH OF) NUNEATON itco (IN THE COUNTY OF) WARWICK.

SO son of
DO daughter of
BOYPO both of ye parish of IYCO in ye county of ITCO in the county of
I in

Another Example will show you problems which might crop up.....For instance,- the I.G.I. under M 04367-2 marks up William Atkin 15th Nov. 1735 marriage to a Margaret C..... although the I.G.I. quotes Nov. it does not appear under this date on the C.D. but you will locate the entry under 15th Jan.1736 which is of course under the Julian calendar and so still is in 1735! There is slightly more information..... John Atkin married to Margaret Colley by Banns at Foleshill, but it has been entered in St.Johns register (I could have put an annotation to refer to this but it became over complicated having to refer constantly to a legend as there are so many variations to log, I thought it best to leave it and suggest just a scan through the immediate area to match up the I.G.I.'s interpretation and my interpretation).

So really this C.D. is an Index or tool which with manipulation you can interpret the damaged pages - it helps to clarify and bring order to a jumble of fragmented records.

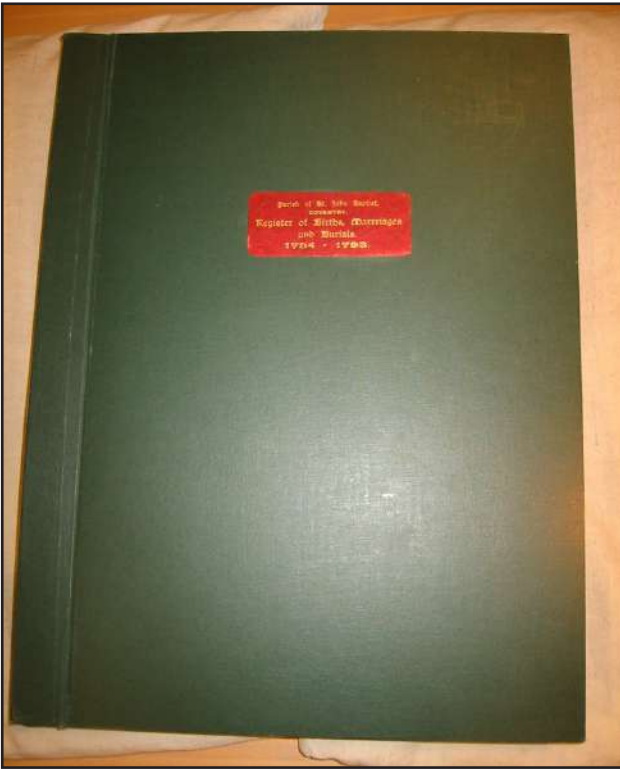

The date of consecration of St John's is significant June 24th as this was St John's Day

A very famous Coventry industrialist is buried in the small graveyard at the rear of the church, John Rotherham (Watchmaker).....so near to his famous Rotherhams factory in Spon Street.

Page 1 From 24th to Dec 31st-1734

The condition of this page is very poor, being almost completely washed out.

An attempt has been made to transcribe the page (by someone unknown) but is incomplete missing the last two months.

I have used this transcription as the basis of the page and coloured it in (black type) unfortunately there are no dates included in this transcription and you cannot use the black type for location on page 1 as it was of course written on another page.

There are 39 entries, first column has the date line, these are firstly in (blue type) and then (violet type) denoting they come from the licences at Lichfield, and a scan with the ultra violet lamp. The initial date is in (red type) this was the day the church was started and is an assumption.

It will be seen there are various attempts at surnames from different aspects denoted by the coloured type in the entries. The viability of each should be assessed on the coloured type.

It will be seen that the ^ symbol is present at the end of an entry in most cases, this denotes the I.G.I. transcription has found this entry and is more or less the same as my interpretation.

The I.G.I. entries are in (aqua type) and are only entered where they differ from the film or licences or my translation of the parish book!

There is a red diagonal line after some later entries on this page which denotes they are missing from the I.G.I. The problem with the I.G.I. is that although the majority of entries have been recorded there is no reference point which corresponds to the actual parish register, so if a date is missing (which is quite often) you have no idea which page or where in the year the entry lies.

A forward slash(/) is also used in the text to show a different variation of a surname etc, this will also be in a different coloured type so you can assess its viability.

The third column denotes the ages of the couple getting married, these ages are not in the parish book and have come from the licences at Lichfield and are in (blue type) also I have attempted to put in a day the event occurred. I do not know how accurate and successful this is! It seems all of these ceremonies on this page took place away from the church mostly in St. Michael's, Coventry.

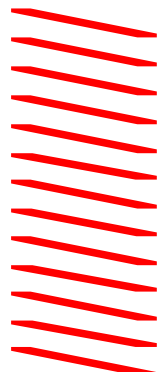

It will be seen there are a few entries in (pink type), these entries again come from Lichfield licences - the dates match approximately with the gap in the entries but because there is very little remaining text on the parish book page I am unsure if it is the correct entry for that position. However as St John's is mentioned in the licence it might be possible to eliminate the other churches mentioned in the licence, (if the record for those churches survive).

Also we have (lavender type), this denotes a likely possibility that we can insert a surname which is active and has been used on corresponding pages and uses unique combinations of first names etc.

This page again is extremely hard to read, there are 44 entries. We can see text from L.D.S. film, which is in (black type) and can be used to locate a position on the page.

There are also certain dates visible and an odd month, there are conflicting dates listed in different coloured type for some entries, possibly the date specified on the licence was not the date the ceremony actually took place. So a different date has been entered, however there is usually only a few days' difference between the dates. The date column being on the outer edge of the pages has suffered the most damage and fading, but it is this column which is crucial to decoding the book.

This page also appears to have been completed at St Michael's, this church previously handled all the ceremonies for the now newly created parish which St John's would eventually fully take over. The initial baptisms entered would appear to come from the Spon Street area, the marriages by licence appear to have initially a strong surrounding village influence, but could still have ties to Coventry.

It can be seen on this page that the central area has the most fading,

This is a very interesting page, you see three quarters of the way down the page in red type, (the first child baptized St John's) just in an area where the print is beginning to fade, there are 51 entries, you will see the I.G.I was having difficulties with the later half of the page (Red Diagonal notation) mainly marriages, because they had not realized the licence connection, and there are more words to enter on the line, so the writing is smaller and more difficult to see.

54 entries on this page, the top half of this page is quite readable on film and we have a good date line, but the I.G.I. again loses track in the lower entries, I think this is probably because it gets harder without a date line reference. There are a good number of licence weddings, spread over the months enabling me to establish a consistent date line.

Generally this page can be represented quite well using the licences to establish a date line, and reference to the parish book which is easy to read and fills in the upper and lower parts of the page. The centre (black type) is from the film, the I.G.I has most of these entries although there are discrepancies in surname spelling.

This page is quite legible from the film and the I.G.I. has covered all of it too, notice we are into the new year but the Julian calendar has us still in 1737!

THE FIRST BANNNS, Jan 31 - a note tells us the first actual banns are to be published from St John's from there on.

Most of the entries are readable from the film for this page, also there is a nearly-complete date line

56 entries

There is a two line gap after the first entry at the top of the page, I am not sure if a marriage entry should be here as the licences are missing for 1738 at Lichfield.

The page is made up from the film (black type) top of page, ultra violet lamp (violet type) centre of page, and parish book (blue type) bottom of page.

This page is one of the more seriously faded pages, as you can see it was mostly revealed under ultra violet, however the I.G.I. has covered most of it - truly impressive. The odd thing about this page is the lack of marriages after May! I have included licences which were found at Lichfield but do not fit in, but have St. John's as an alternative and are in 1740.

This page is quite a contrast to page 10 as it is easily readable from the film. There is an additional note near the page bottom telling us the name of the lecturer of St John's on his son's baptism- which is JAMES POWELL.

Probably the most faded and challenging page of all, the I.G.I. does not record many names.

Notice I record Elizabeth Yates Apr 1742 which is an incomplete entry, now, there is no record of a licence for Elizabeth but a Joseph Yates marries 22nd Apr 1742 under licence, so it is possible that it is a marriage! (Brother & sister marrying close together?)

The I.G.I. records a few in the bottom half of the page, but as the date line is completely erased on this page you will notice that the I.G.I. recorded under 1741 instead of 1742 .It is only with the help of the licences that I managed to reveal the date line.

Another good page. With reference to the variation in surname spelling the licences generally were much easier to read, so that interpretation of surname would probably be the better one to use.

Generally a good page which can be read from the film, there are a few variations in surnames. The date column is now easily read so although there will be more licence weddings I have stopped recording them from 1744. The amount of certificates that have to be checked from 1744 was becoming too time consuming and anyway you can now see the date column on the film.

46 entries - one squeezed in.

It can be seen that between 40/50 entries per page and 2/3 pages per year on average are being used.

Another good page from the film, once a dateline has been established it becomes easier to locate the year in the book, even when the months are clearly shown on film you often lose track without the full overview of the page.

The B.T.s start from this page so now we have a copy, there is a slight contradiction between the B.T.s and the parish book around September and the first roll of the B.T.s are very crumpled and ripped away so it was difficult to read we have aqua type to denote the B.T.s.

This page also includes the initial workings for the changeover from the Julian to Gregorian calendars. This was adopted in 1752, so 11 days were omitted between (Wednesday) Sept,2nd1752 to (Thursday) Sept.14th 1752. The way this has been achieved at St. John's seems to be to stop all ceremonies on the Sunday Aug. 30th and restart on Sunday Sept.17th. Of course there are only 6 days between these two dates!.

I confirm that there is no problem at all with copyright for your transcripts from the individual marriage licences held here in Lichfield (if there is copyright in the transcription, it is yours). We would be very pleased to receive a copy of your work in due course. It is full images of the original records themselves where we require notice of intended publication. For your work, as you suggest, acknowledgement of LRO as a general source and the B/C/6,7 reference to the specific series of bonds is perfectly sufficient.

Dear Bill

Please find attached the 2 images of St John's Church we looked at today. The first one is by W. Stephenson and dates from around 1805 to 1820. The second one, the print, is by Joseph Tomkinson and dates from 1843 to 1870.

These images are supplied on the understanding that they are used only for the purpose discussed, ie the CD you are producing, and are not used in any other way without our permission. Please credit the Herbert Art Gallery & Museum, Coventry.

I hope they are useful.

Best wishes

Martin

Dear Mr Botterill

I am pleased to confirm that the record office has no objection to you using the transcription of the register. I would be grateful if you could ensure that it is acknowledged in full, quoting its source (Warwickshire County Record Office) and the references sited above.

The record office reserves the right to charge a fee for release of material for publication. On this occasion we would be happy to waive the fee in return of a copy of your CD. Additionally, if you felt able to make a donation to the County Record Office's Record Purchase Fund, it would help us to continue to develop our collections so that work of this nature can continue. Cheques should be made payable to Warwickshire County Council, and should be sent to the address below.

Kind Regards
Merima

This view of St John's is taken from the top of Barras Lane, Hill Street area and depicts the massive industrialisation of the city. It clearly shows why the derelict chapel had to be pressed into service.

When looking through this file, if you discover ancestors or can impart any extra information which could assist or enhance any entry therein, perhaps you could e-mail me at williambottrill@talktalk.net and I will make an additional list which could be included in any update of this C.D.

Oh, finally, I never did discover any of my missing ancestors in the book after all!
